CHANGES TO AGENDA

Add a report from Martha Lindley, Director of Governmental and Corporate Relations, directly after the President's report.

APPROVAL OF MINUTES

MOTION NO. 2994 Eric Roth moved and Charles McGehee seconded a motion to approve the minutes of the February 1, 1995, Faculty Senate meeting as distributed. Motion passed.

COMMUNICATIONS

-1/31/95 letter from Jack Baker, Director - DAPPER, requesting Drug and Alcohol Policy reference in Faculty Code; referred to Code Committee.
-2/9/95 letter from Walter Arlt, President - CWU Federation of Teachers, regarding Request for Public Records concerning 1/27/95 Board of Trustees motion; referred to Executive Committee [see Old Business below].

REPORTS

1. CHAIR

MOTION NO. 2995 Thomas Yeh moved and Ken Gamon seconded a motion to replace William Craig, Library, with Ed Gellenbeck, Computer Science, on the Faculty Senate Academic Affairs Committee, effective immediately. Motion passed.

-Chair Nesselroad reported that nominations are being accepted for the 1995-96 Faculty Senate Executive Committee. He reminded nominators to contact Senators and ascertain their willingness to serve if elected. The position of Faculty Senate Chair receives 50% released time from departmental duties (per Faculty Code section 7.25.C.), and the Senate chair's department is compensated up to $7200 for the actual cost of replacement. Faculty Senate Chair nominees must therefore obtain the approval of their department chair before being nominated to this position. According to the Senate's bylaws, executive officers will be elected at the last meeting of Winter quarter. The Executive Committee plans to ask for a suspension of this portion of the Bylaws to allow election of next year's Executive Committee members at the first meeting of Spring quarter: April 5, 1995.

-Connie Roberts, Special Assistant to the Provost for Institutional Research and Assessment, submitted a February 2, 1995, memo to Deans' Council suggesting development of additional report elements from the Student Evaluations of Instruction (SEOI). Included in the proposal to "create meaningful reports from SEOIs for faculty, chairs, and deans" are comparative statistical valuations such as 1) item mean and standard deviation for department, school and institution as well as courses with the same prefix; and 2) decile rank for department, school and institution on each item. Future development of 1) mean by level (100, 200, 300, 400) for department, school and institution, and 2) overall mean for general evaluation for department, school and institution, are also proposed. Chair Nesselroad stated that faculty would probably be most interested in how the data generated by such reports would be utilized. The Chair has therefore recommended to Deans' Council that any proposal for major changes in generating comparative data be reviewed by the Senate when the proposals are in more complete form. In answer to questions from

Senators, he added that a few minor changes have been made in the evaluation form since it was approved by the Faculty Senate during Fall quarter 1994.

-Gary Lewis, Dean of Library Services, submitted a January 31, 1995, Library Service Policy for review by Deans' Council. The comprehensive Policy was developed in cooperation with the Library Department Heads and was reviewed by all faculty and staff of the Library and by the Library Advisory Committee. Major changes include a limit on the number of books which can be checked out at one time; limiting borrowing privileges when the total of fines and charges becomes excessive; assessing fees by item rather than by notice; addition of a processing fee for lost books which are later returned; enforcement of fines to all users, including faculty and staff; increase of the fine for overdue reserve materials; and extension of interlibrary loan and resource retrieval services to community users (with a fee). Chair Nesselroad explained that the Library intends to recommend an amnesty period during the transition from old policies to the new, comprehensive policy.

-Deans' Council discussed the complex problems surrounding computer access for faculty stationed at remote locations. The current burden of obtaining equipment, locating and purchasing Internet access, etc., seems to rest with faculty members. Dean Gary Lewis will convey Deans' Council's concerns to the University Computing Committee, of which he is also a member.

2. PRESIDENT

President Ivory Nelson reported that he has made several trips to Olympia to talk with legislators about Central's main concerns and requests: full funding for 500 FTE additional students; rescission of the 2.4% base budget reduction order; increases in faculty and staff salaries; and capital requests (including Black Hall remodel/addition, Science Facility/Phase II, Lynnwood Extended Degree Center). The President reported that Republican legislators seem to favor in principle the need for higher education but are generally unwilling to devote funding to higher education support. It is expected that the budgets produced by the House and Senate will be less generous to higher education than those proposed by Governor Lowry and the Higher Education Coordinating (HEC) Board. Multiple bills concerning time-to-degree and tuition are still being considered. The deadline for bills to leave committees is March 1, and bills must leave their house of origin by March 6 to remain viable. President Nelson stated that Central has responded to extraordinary data requests (including salary history) during this legislative session.

3. DIRECTOR OF GOVERNMENT AND CORPORATE RELATIONS

Director of Government and Corporate Relations Martha Lindley reported that she is based at the SeaTac Center during the current legislative session. Ms. Lindley briefly outlined the contents of bills concerning tuition, time-to-degree and financial aid. She urged faculty to read the bills [available through the Washington State Legislature Public Access System at 1) $gopher leginfo.leg.wa.gov or 2) for NorthWestNet subscribers, at $telnet uwin.u.washington.edu under "Government Information" service index, "State Legislature Gopher" sub-index] and contact their legislators at this crucial point in the decision making process [toll free legislative hotline: 1-800-562-6000]. Ms. Lindley stated that it is unsure whether faculty and staff salary increases will be approved. She remarked that data on salaries has been collected by legislators, but the type of information and the way it was utilized yielded incorrect results. In answer to a Senator's question concerning tuition surcharges to students exceeding 115% of their degree requirements, Ms. Lindley replied that all of the proposed tuition bills currently include such a stipulation.

FACULTY OPINION SURVEY OF ADMINISTRATORS

MOTION NO. 2991 was moved at the February 1, 1995, Faculty Senate meeting. Faculty Senate Bylaws changes cannot be voted on until the subsequent meeting after introduction and require a two-thirds majority of those present and voting for approval.

*MOTION NO. 2991 Charles McGhee moved and Robert Fordan seconded a motion to 1) change Faculty Senate Bylaws section IV.C.2.: Ad Hoc Committee for Faculty Opinion Survey of Administrators: "The Faculty Senate shall conduct faculty opinion surveys of academic administrators --- deans, provost and vice president for academic affairs, president of the university --- every two (2) years ~~beginning in the academic year 1986-87~~. For purposes of devising and conducting the survey, the Senate shall appoint an ad hoc committee of members of the faculty."; and to 2) suspend Faculty Senate Bylaws section IV.C.2. for the 1994-1995 academic year, and begin the next faculty opinion survey cycle during academic year 1995-96.

Senators continued discussion on MOTION NO. 2991 and expressed skepticism that an additional year of review would succeed in producing a more workable survey instrument. Jack Dugan, member of the Ad Hoc Committee to Review the Faculty Opinion Survey of Administrators, reported that he and co-committee member Agnes Canedo, Special Assistant to the President, interviewed all of the administrators surveyed. Administrators seem to agree that faculty should have the right and ability to evaluate how well administrators are doing their jobs, but they were highly concerned about some of the anonymous, hostile comments they have received. There is general consensus among both faculty and administrators that the survey instrument could be improved, and Dr. Dugan stated his belief that this redesign should be accomplished in conjunction with those individuals the survey is intended to evaluate. In answer to questions concerning how the original survey instrument was developed, Dr. Dugan stated that it was developed by an Ad Hoc Committee of the Faculty Senate soon after the university had experienced two difficult years of reduction-in-funding and faculty layoffs. Then President Donald Garrity was adamantly opposed to the opinion survey, and he advised faculty and administrators to ignore it. There has since been very little modification of the original instrument. Agnes Canedo stated that she and Dr. Dugan met with the members of the Association of Administrators, and this group supports the concept of evaluation of administrative functions to indicate whether faculty needs are being met through the services performed by administrators. Senators generally supported the need for redesign of the survey instrument but were unwilling to suspend the 1994-95 survey.

Vote was held on MOTION NO. 2991; motion defeated.

UNITED FACULTY OF CENTRAL (AFT/NEA)

MOTION NO. 2993 Charles McGeehee moved and Bob Fordan seconded a motion to table MOTION NO. 2992 until the February 22, 1995, Faculty Senate meeting. Motion passed (2/1/95).

MOTION NO. 2992 [as removed from table]

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees of Central Washington University unanimously rejected the request of United Faculty of Central to hold an election for collective bargaining without offering any explanation and
WHEREAS 65% of the faculty at Central expressed the desire to have such an election and
WHEREAS the Faculty Senate of Central Washington University has several times voted unanimously in favor of enabling legislation for collective bargaining and
WHEREAS the rejection of the principle of collective bargaining runs counter to the spirit of democracy and shared governance and
WHEREAS higher education faces a nationwide crisis which calls for cooperation and collaboration among faculty, administration and Board,
The Faculty Senate of Central Washington University hereby votes to censure the Board of Trustees and expresses non-confidence in its members as the governing body of this institution.

SUBSTITUTE MOTION NO. 2996 Barry Donahue moved and Spike Arlt seconded a motion to substitute the following wording for MOTION NO. 2992:

WHEREAS the Board of Trustees of Central Washington University unanimously rejected the request of United Faculty of Central to hold an election for collective bargaining without offering any explanation, and
WHEREAS 65% of the faculty at Central Washington University expressed the desire to have such an election, and
WHEREAS the Faculty Senate of Central Washington University has voted unanimously in favor of enabling legislation for collective bargaining, and
WHEREAS the summary rejection of the principle of collective bargaining runs counter to the spirit of shared governance, and
WHEREAS the President has expressed strong support for shared governance, and
WHEREAS higher education faces a nationwide crisis which calls for cooperation and collaboration among faculty, administration and Board,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED the Faculty Senate of Central Washington University hereby expresses strong disagreement with the Board of Trustees in its unilateral action and calls for reconsideration of the issue.

Senator Donahue stated that SUBSTITUTE MOTION NO. 2996 is stronger than MOTION NO. 2992 because it is a specific appeal requesting additional action on the part of the Board rather than a simple sanction of the Board's prior activity. Chair Nesselroad pointed out that the Board is under no obligation to recognize the United Faculty of Central but must recognize the Faculty Senate under its agreement with the faculty through the Faculty Code.

SUBSTITUTE MOTION NO. 2996 passed unanimously

MOTION NO. 2997 Charles McGeehee moved and Ken Gamon seconded a motion that, whereas the Faculty Senate regards MOTION NO. 2996 with the greatest of urgency, the Faculty Senate Executive Committee, through the Faculty Senate Chair, be instructed to communicate MOTION NO. 2996 to the Trustees of Central Washington University forthwith. Motion passed unanimously.

TO: Faculty Senate
FROM: Frank Carlson
DATE: February 20, 1995
RE: Abbreviated report of representation activities

This is abbreviated because two days after the quarter started, we discovered that Mrs. Carlson has a serious health problem. This has knocked most of my plans for winter quarter for a loop.

On January 9th, the first day of the legislative session, I spent the day making courtesy calls, and at last spoke to our own representatives and to Senator Hochstatter. Mostly I talked to their staff members and to Senate staff members.

On January 10th, in the afternoon, I attended the Senate Higher Education Committee hearing at which the Governor's budget was presented by Mike Bigelow. He did have a hard time getting through it, although it was in much better humor than the newspapers reported. Both Democratic and Republican Senators were unhappy with the proportion of state budget going to higher education, as well as the methods (tuition and cuts) to fund salary increases. The limited enrollment increase was also complained about. To be fair to the governor, no one had any better ideas. The Higher Education coordinating Board also got time to make their proposals, which were for many more students than in the governor's plan.

Gene Prince, Senator from Spokane reported on the history of establishing enrollment caps and the general slide in state support. One point he made several times was that tuition was relatively low in Washington State, compared to other states. The state support was also low, as 30% in some states amounted to $4500, while he mentioned 30% in our state being about $2500. I believe his point was that students might have to pay more in the future, but that the whole cost of improvement should not be borne by students alone.

On January 16th, I went to the offices of Representative Don Carlson, chair of House Higher Education. He seemed receptive to doing something for higher education salaries. He did think that we already 'negotiated' our salaries with our administration, so I do want to go back to him on that. I also went to Senator Jeanne Kohl, Democrat and a faculty member at the University of Washington. She also was receptive to doing something for salaries. I pointed out that we have hired many new faculty while the salary freeze has been in effect, and we might be developing an equity issue to deal with later.

Also on the 16th, a group of us went to Senator Rinehart's office, where we were joined by Senator Al Bauer. They mostly talked about the budget and the possibilities they saw for use of about half a billion dollars so far uncommitted below the 601 limit. They appear to be receptive to a one-time expenditure, with no 'carry-forward' to future budget year's spending on a one-time. They were talking about things other than salaries, generally.

Finally on the 16th, Senator Rinehart invited all senators to an open meeting on higher education at 4:30. I counted heads and eventually seventeen senators were present, along with staff, governor's office staff, and a room full of lobbyists and representatives. Both Democrats and Republicans were there. There were no solutions, but a pretty complete background of the problem and how we have gotten to this point.

I did return on the 24th, but only to pick up bills. On February 7th, I did attend a hearing of the House Higher Education Committee, at which staff went through the several bills relating to higher education tuition. All bills contemplated raising tuition; the only real sticking point was (and still is) who gets to set the amount, the legislature or the institutions.

I have stopped by the COP office to say hello, and I have met Ms, Teeley (I think that's how it is spelled) in the halls and meeting rooms. I have also met the lobbyists from the University of Washington and Hugh Fleetwood from CFR, as well as the WEA and WFT lobbyists.

As our health problem settles down, I hope to pick up where I left off.

Dear Dr. Nesselroad,

It has been brought to the attention of the Drug and Alcohol Policy Review Committee that the Faculty Code does not include a reference to the Central Washington University Drug and Alcohol Policy.

To keep in compliance with the federally mandated "Drug Free Schools and Communities Act", the Faculty Code should make reference to the policy. Please refer this matter to your code committee. If I can be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to call my office at 963-3213.
